John Brown, one of the proprietors of the Oregon Handle Manufacturing Company, is in Dallas this week contracting for grub oak timber to be shipped to the factory in Newberg. Mr. Brown says the factory is running on full time and is finding a ready sale for its output. He finds the timber around Dallas of a very desirable quality for his purposes, and has contracted for several carloads to be delivered at once.

O. P. Hoff, Commissioner of Labor for Oregon, was in Dallas on business connected with his office, Wednesday.

He expressed himself as greatly pleased with labor and industrial conditions here, and says Dallas is one of the most prosperous towns he has visited in the state. He was a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Rich during his stay, having known Mr. Rich since his early boyhood.

Frank Brown spent part of last week taking lessons in candy making from M. York, Portland's best chocolate cream and specialty man. Among the new candies Brown & Shaw are now making are Ice Cream Chocolates (with pure cream centers), Molasses Kisses, Chewing Nougat, Molasses Log Cabin Rolls, and a great many more fine candies which will be added to the assortment as soon as possible. See display of French Nougat in front show case.

The juvenile brass band has completed its organization, and now meets regularly for practice. The leader, E. F. Rowland, is a musician of ability, and has had considerable experience in teaching boys' bands. He says the members of the new band are enthusiastic in their work, and are making good progress. He is anxious to secure the interest and cooperation of the parents of the lads, and, looking to that end, will probably give a public recital some time during the winter. Meanwhile, the boys are planning to give a social to raise money for incidental expenses and the purchase of music. Everyone will be anxious to give the boys' band a helping hand, and their entertainment will be liberally patronized.

RAIN CAUSES DAMAGE

Trains on Dallas & Falls City Railroad Are Delayed On Account of Slides.

The heavy rains of last week caused several small slides on the Dallas & Falls City railroad, and trains were delayed for a few hours. Chief Engineer J. W. Covert came up from Portland and soon had a force of workmen repairing the damaged roadbed. The new track is standing the wet weather and heavy traffic exceedingly well, when the fact is taken into consideration that the road was built only a few months ago and has hardly had time to settle. Mr. Covert will probably remain in Dallas three or four weeks, superintending the work of strengthening the grade in places where slides or washouts are most likely to occur. The damage caused by the recent rains is small.

Less fortunate is the Johnson Lumber Company, whose wing dam on the Cutler farm west of town was washed away by the recent freshet. The LaCrosse river reached a high stage of water in a few hours after the rain began, so steady was the downpour, and the new wing dam was not sufficiently strong to withstand the heavy current and soon gave way. The dam was built last summer at an expense of several hundred dollars.

The new cribbing along the South side of the company's log pond withstood the action of the high water in fairly good shape, but it is believed that prompt measures to strengthen the embankment will have to be taken in order to render the pond absolutely safe for the storing of logs.

The LaCrosse is a quiet stream and easily controlled in seasons of low water, but when it gets on a tear in the winter months it is a hard one to handle, as many mill men and farmers living along its banks have learned to their great expense and inconvenience.

Philip Heinrich and Maria Menke were married in Dallas, Saturday, Rev. W. T. Wardle, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, officiating. These people were formerly husband and wife, but were granted a divorce at St. Helens, Columbia county, about three weeks ago, after a stubbornly contested suit. Mr. and Mrs. Heinrich separated in Dallas early last spring, and Mrs. Heinrich went to Columbia county, where she brought suit against Mr. Heinrich for a divorce, alleging neglect and cruel and inhuman treatment. Mr. Heinrich filed a cross complaint, and upon a hearing before Judge McBride, was awarded a decree of divorce. Mrs. Heinrich, however, was allowed to take her maiden name, Maria Menke. At the conclusion of a spirited and expensive suit, both parties seemed to regret the action they had taken, and a disposition to "let bygones be bygones" was most noticeable on the part of both plaintiff and defendant. Early last week Mrs. Heinrich came to Dallas, and on Saturday a license to wed was applied for by the couple, and was granted by County Clerk U. S. Loughary. The marriage took place Saturday evening.

TEACHERS ARE AT SCHOOL

Annual County Institute in Session This Week is Proving of Great Interest and Profit.

Probably the most successful Teachers' Institute that has ever been held in Polk county is now in session at the courthouse. Ninety teachers are in attendance, and the work of the instructors is received with enthusiastic interest. The Institute began Wednesday morning, and will close this afternoon. County School Superintendent Starr has worked hard to make the annual meeting of teachers one of interest, and is highly gratified by the large attendance and the practical work being done.

L. R. Traver, Superintendent of the Salem schools, has charge of the Reading and Number work, and is giving the teachers practical instruction, which will be profitably carried into the schools of the county. Superintendent Traver gave an excellent talk on School Room Decoration on Wednesday afternoon. Thursday, he defended the vertical system of writing and instructed the teachers how to teach it, and today will close his work with an address on School Libraries. His work has been highly satisfactory.

E. D. Bessler, President of the Oregon State Normal School at Monmouth, has given instruction in Methods, History and Language in such a manner as to not only interest the teacher, but has proven himself an able institute instructor. His closing topic today will be the National Educational Association at Boston.

Rev. D. V. Poling, of The Dalles, was unable to reach Dallas in time to deliver the lecture for which he was scheduled Wednesday evening, and in his absence President Bessler delighted the audience with an address on "The Philosophy of Happiness."

State Superintendent J. H. Ackerman, in his address to the teachers this afternoon, will outline a practical program for the rural schools. His talk will be of great benefit to teachers who are forced to have a multiplicity of daily recitations. Superintendent Ackerman's subject yesterday afternoon was Spelling, and he handled it in a masterful manner.

The lecture last night by Joseph Schafer, Professor of History in the University of Oregon, was enjoyed by a large audience. Prof. Schafer had his subject well in hand, and his lecture was an intellectual treat. Miss Edna Parrish, Professor of Oratory and Expression in Dallas College, has contributed greatly to the pleasure of the evening entertainments by her clever recitations. The musical program has also been good.

Tomorrow the school directors and clerks will meet and discuss topics of interest. A large attendance of school officers is expected, and the meeting will doubtless be interesting and profitable to all.
